Miss Josephine Hutchinson, Chicago, Ill., Dear Madam—I have often had occasion through illness, absence, and suffering to wish myself an independent, to some extent, of the people and their work as a help of necessities. The suffering is especially great to women with limited income, for many reasons, but chiefly because they are debarred by custom from earning their own living, and from the use of that best means of independence—money. The greatest suffering comes to girls reduced from better circumstances by misfortune, and who, for the most part, have a much keener sense of honor, and truer appreciation of the sanctity of womanhood than the world. The world owes a much keener debt to honor, and does not treat it accordingly. Many girls have recently brought to mind for the use of the proprietors' interests. The low rates of the mails and postage during the French and Russian and the desire the needs of friends, and many others are also. Offering to get the articles and write letters to the advertisers. All enough this enables the others may earn their own and the farmers are unable to procure work.

THE LATEST CRIME.

Assassination and Subsequent Suicide of a Prominent Kentucky Citizen.

Lexington, Ky., March 21.—[Special Dispatch.]—Gen. Leslie Combs, a prominent citizen of Kentucky, and a leader of the Democratic party in this State, was shot and killed at his residence, near Jackson, Breathitt County, this morning by Capt. Thomas H. Cockrell, a prominent citizen of Breathitt County. Cockrell then went to the house of Gen. Combs, and, finding him dead, shot himself through the head, dying instantly. The trouble between the two men grew out of the Democratic factional fight in Breathitt County. Gen. Combs was a leader of the Democratic party in that county, and Capt. Cockrell was a leader of the opposing faction. Gen. Combs was a prominent lawyer, and was a member of the Kentucky Legislature in 1867-8. He was also a candidate for Congress in the Ashland district in 1870, but was defeated by Hon. Thomas L. Jones. Gen. Combs was a native of Kentucky, and was about 50 years of age. Capt. Cockrell was also a native of Kentucky, and was about 40 years of age. He was a brother of Hon. Breckinridge Cockrell, who represented the Ashland district in Congress for several years. Capt. Cockrell was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Ashland district in 1882, but was defeated by Hon. Thomas L. Jones. Capt. The Drive Now the Exhibition for Fear of a Riot—The Reasons Assigned.

Now the colored people, through their efforts in meeting events to be of utmost moment in the history of the race in this country, are confronted by the question of whether they will celebrate the emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln, or the passage of the thirteenth amendment to the constitution, which abolishes slavery throughout the United States. The proclamation was issued by President Lincoln on the 1st day of January, 1863, and declared that all persons held as slaves within any State or designated part of a State, the people whereof should not then be in rebellion against the United States, should be then, thenceforward, and forever free. The thirteenth amendment was passed by Congress on the 31st day of January, 1865, and declared that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, should exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction. This amendment has been ratified by the legislatures of twenty-seven States, and it is now only necessary that two more States should ratify it to make it a part of the constitution. Both of these measures are of the highest importance to the colored people of the United States, and they are justly proud of the fact that they have been instrumental in securing the passage of both of them. The question now is, which of these two measures shall be celebrated by the colored people of Chicago? Some of the leaders of the colored people are in favor of celebrating the passage of the thirteenth amendment, while others are in favor of celebrating the issuing of the emancipation proclamation. Those who favor the celebration of the passage of the thirteenth amendment say that the passage of the proclamation was a mere war measure, and that it was only issued as a means of crippling the rebellion, and that it was not intended as a permanent measure. They also say that the proclamation only freed those slaves who were actually within the lines of the rebellion, and that it left those slaves who were not within the lines of the rebellion in bondage. Those who favor the celebration of the passage of the proclamation say that the passage of the thirteenth amendment was merely the consummation of the work which was begun by the proclamation, and that the proclamation was the first step taken by the government toward the abolition of slavery. They also say that the passage of the thirteenth amendment was the result of the proclamation, and that it would never have been passed if it had not been for the proclamation. Those who favor the celebration of the passage of the proclamation say that the passage of the thirteenth amendment was the result of the proclamation, and that it would never have been passed if it had not been for the proclamation. CONVENTIONS.

CHICAGO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democratic Campaign Committee met at 4 o'clock yesterday. All the members were present except Mr. Gallagher, who was detained by business. Mr. Reynolds was elected Chairman and then the minutes were read and approved. Mr. Gallagher appeared and took his seat. The committee then proceeded to the consideration of the Primary Election call. After a long discussion as to the constitutionality of the Primary Election law, it was unanimously resolved, 1. That it was practicably evident, 2. In the opinion of this committee, that the Democratic party should make their own nominations and 3. That Messrs. Wallace, A. C. Van Antwerp, George A. Gates, George Schneider, C. B. Farwell, George M. Pullman, and Lewis Reed be elected on the part of the city. The proportion of the assessment of candidates was agreed to. It was the general impression that the candidates might not be assessed. There was some discussion there as to the question of their responsibility, and finally it was resolved to defer every effort to defray the expenses. The following were elected to act as the Executive Committee of the campaign: Messrs. C. B. Farwell, Lewis Reed, Wallace, Van Antwerp, Gates, Schneider, Pullman, Gallagher, Reynolds, Hoyne, Wentworth, Loomis, Wheeler, Wright, Wilson Phelps, Judge Rogers, Wilson Pate Phelps, and Ben Harvey. The Committee based about two hours, and the committee got several steps which they will mature further. Prior to their last day to organize in the Democratic Primary Election and then to make nominations for the Democratic ticket. The meeting of the Executive Committee was to begin immediately after the adjournment of the Democratic Primary Election, and there to make all the necessary arrangements for the campaign.

Operators of trouble in the Kindhouse Valley record great excitement in the House of Commons on Friday, Dec., yesterday. Sir John Macdonald explained that the half-breeds of the Prince Albert district were in open revolt. The cause of the trouble was a difficulty over certain land claims in dispute between them and the Government. Troops have been sent to quell the disturbance.

Serious business with Turkey are becoming more seductive. The Russian Ambassador at Constantinople has the use of the Turkish, and England has no diplomat on the ground skilful enough to cope with the Czar's representative. England's power over Turkey seems to have been waning ever since Lord Salisbury left Constantinople. As soon as Sir Edward Thornton can be spared at St. Petersburg he will be sent to Constantinople to checkmate the Russian game. Engineer is anxious and Lord's sweet with more between Turkey and Russia. To avoid such a possibility it is suggested that England shall make important concessions to the Turkey in order to secure its allegiance.

A decision was rendered by the United States Supreme Court yesterday to a series of five cases known as the polygamy suits, brought by certain Mormons of Utah to get a decision as to the power of the Board of Commissioners appointed under the Edmunds act to register children in that Territory. The principal question raised was whether the Board of Commissioners had the power to prescribe as a condition of registration of voters a declaration by applicants to support the constitution of the United States and obey the laws, and whether the refusal by applicants to make such declaration was a sufficient reason for refusing to register them. The court decided that the board had no power to prescribe such an oath, that the commissioners were clearly deprived of their right of registration, and that the members of the board are responsible to actions for damages.

THE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.

After an unusual delay, which awoke half hoped was being utilized to discover the most brilliant and distinguished man to represent the United States abroad, the President has sent to the Senate a list of factual appointments which will surprise if it does not astonish the American people.

The Minister to England Mr. Edward J. Phelps of Vermont has been nominated as successor to James Russell Lowell. After diligent inquiry it has been ascertained that Mr. Phelps is a gentleman about 60 years old, a son of the late Hon. Senator Phelps, who was a contemporary of Webster, a lawyer who held a good position at the Vermont bar, and recently a lecturer in the Yale Law School. He has never been in Congress, has never occupied a position on the bench, and has had no other experience in public life than as an unnoticed Democratic candidate for Governor of his native State. Mr. Phelps may be a gentleman of unquestionable honesty, but the country has profound fear and a doubt in all England ever heard of the man, for may the people in this country outside of Vermont and such lawyers as take an active interest in the American bar association know of his existence. Gen. Franklin Churchill seems to be upon the Minister to the Court of St. James, which position has for years been regarded as second in importance only to that of Secretary of State, to one of many persons whom the vast Democratic host gives the display. If a man like James Russell Lowell was to be retired, who, as a thinker, politician, orator, and statesman, has gained the goodwill of Minister to England, party and interest alike should have suggested the selection of some eminent man. Wm. Bayard, Thurman, Pendleton, Lamar, Carlisle, and other gentlemen of great personal acquaintance and international fame were more available. Mr. Cleveland has shown an absence and free private life to fit the most distinguished and most responsible post abroad. The appointment is certainly an extraordinary one. A good many people were guessing that Cleveland would offer the English mission to George William Curtis (laughing), or at least to some one of the shrilling sympathizers, and plausibly.

Senator Bayard of Maryland to be patient and decent Democratic politician of the school of Battle Van Buren, who has been a long member of Congress of late years, is to go to France, with the singular title of "Ambassador" Confidence Clerks," as the law has known, the power to designate a Secretary of Wonder

Working It on a Retired Boot Tailor—A Man Who Leverages Implicated.

Thieves have been acting in the United States long enough at the rate of one or two a week for the last five months to accumulate of having good-sized rogues' gallery upon which to draw for pictures. The enterprise bodes speculation to thieves when trying to separate the unwary, yet never completes more profit, and the method employed by the rogues clearly indicates that the same persons were later at the business. A slight is kept concealing their movements long before a striking consideration, the more diligent and more the plan. While one engaged the confidence over a genuine purchase of a sort of design the other would work through the store and systematically carefully examine the stock. A suit would be selected, but a diamond would take about the deposit to secure by the sales, which would result in the same going out without making a purchase. Later the stolen jewels presented, that is part of the most successful work had been done by the occupants.

A few days ago a couple of lounging men were seen going out of a window over in North and Washington streets. The police say they knew the men were thieves, and sent them to the station to examine them. At the station it was learned that they answered the descriptions of two men who had been shadowing the officers who had been shadowing the thieves, and who had been arrested for the purpose of getting the latter out of the way. Another fact that others were implicated. The men arrested were George Rogers, alias Evans, and Eva, alias "Cigar." Rogers's name they gave a fictitious settlement to the officers, and said that their occupations were. Jerry McMahon, alias Dan Tilton, Walter Buffet, Tom, alias "Cheney," and John Robinson were arrested.
